Appendix I—(contd.)

The Chairman outlined the history of this case and pointed out that there were two overbridges at either end of the station and that a third foot bridge in between was not essential at all. Further, on a representation from the Travancore Government the site was inspected jointly by the State Executive Engineer and a Railway Engineer, when it was agreed that a foot bridge across the track was not justified. The Chairman concluded that the Railway Administration was not prepared to consider the provision of a bridge at its cost. The Committee, with the exception of Mr. Janardanan Pillai, considered that from the Railway point of view, the bridge was not required.
